Robin –

Can you give me a call on this topic. I wanted to know if you think we should take the lead on prepping Chris for this, or if we should ask Erin to be the primary lead?

Thanks
Bill

Don't miss this critical discussion at CAR MBS 2017:

Fuel Economy and Greenhouse Gas Emissions: Where does policy go now? And, will the market follow?

This session will bring together influential stakeholders to debate and illuminate the pathway to an effective, cohesive, and achievable national fuel economy and greenhouse gas policy.

In these sessions, attendees will:

- Hear firsthand as regulators and industry representatives lay out their case for effective fuel and emission regulation.
- Gain a better understanding of the role states may play in setting stronger emissions regulation.
- Learn where there may be common ground to move forward.
